So This Is Home

Miss Montreal

You're waking up now, to see it all much clearer It's over your head now Just walk when I give you all my fears and

It's over gone, you're back on the ground

So this is home, so this is home It's so much easier when you're on your own So this is home, so this is home It's so much easier when you're all alone

You're coming home

You're doing fine now, but is it really worth it When it's all safe and sound You know it all so why don't you just go break this

It's over gone, you're back on the ground

So this is home, so this is home It's so much easier when you're on your own So this is home, so this is home It's so much easier when your all alone

You're coming home

Stronger, faster, better, more than you expected Take it easy, take it easy Don't do things that you just might regret someday Take it easy, you don't need me

So this is home, so this is home It's so much easier when you're on your own So this is home, so this is home It's so much easier when you're on your own So this is home, so this is home It's so much easier when your all alone
