Waiting For A Million Years

Missing Persons

When will there be forgiveness Are there enough reasons I do believe it's possible We can find peace between us

In the real world all the numbers have no names Real world, notice how the faces change

I've been waiting for a million years
All the promises and all the tears
Patiently waiting as the days go by
Still looking for the truth but finding lies

What will bring light to our eyes When will we hear the laughter Can we build hope on promises Here on the edge of after

I've been waiting, still waiting
I've been waiting, still waiting
I've been waiting, still waiting
I've been waiting for a million years
