Broken darkness my cold end I look for places I've never seen nothing moves but the quiet on the street now I open my eyes to this isolated walking long hard hours winter cold just brings me winter showers it's so brutal with the cold sky wrapped in cold late at night

Come clean, there's no sun yet the only lights here are made I can't speak, I can't hear, but I know I'm real there's no warm here anyway the darkest lights before the dawn you remember the sun but it sank in the water that eats the light wrapped in cold, late at night

I open my eyes, it's cold the only souls go by lift the bridge out of the water the stone black light living is easy when it's night the cold has covered the rain I can see forever, to the deep wrapped in cold, late at night
