One Thing Leads To Another

Moe Bandy

I guess if I'd admit it we'd all know who was wrong But one thing leads to another when there isn't much at home Drink and conversation helps to ease the mind But one thing leads to another every time.

One thing leads to another as the door behind you locks And before you really notice you've gone too far to stop What started out so sweetly has grown into a crime One thing leads to another every time.

I quickly signed the papers then gave the pen to you The old judge mumbled softly and then it was all through I can't believe it's come this far just two names on the line But one thing leads to another every time.

One thing leads to another as the door behind you locks And before you really notice you've gone too far to stop What started out so sweetly has grown into a crime One thing leads to another every time.

And one thing leads to another every time...
