Too Much Money

I know that you know deep inside that your life Would be just like your father dreamed He gave you lots of money and a fast car The clothes you wear, the shit you're in He sent you to the best school He's proud of saying that He did what he should do

And you've learned how to use the words How to make people do What you want them to do

But too much money, sometime's a problem When someone thinks that he could do Just anything he wants to do Yes, too much money, sometime's a problem If money's talking louder than respect It talks louder than you

People surround you Trying to prove they're your friends They say they're happy cause you're there While you pretend you're listening to what they say Your knife is right behind their back

Money works just like a fuel That you inject in people And they do what you say

Respect is something made for fools So I need no respect I'd rather have my part in cash
