

Oughta Be More Songs About That

Montgomery Gentry

I've heard a million country songs 'bout love gone wrong good times crazy women and I've sung about tractors trucks fast cars n small town living n I'd love to hear a band that rocks with words that make you stop and think about family if you ask me oughta be more songs about that old man who worked hard all his life then Wall Street broke his nest egg now he cant afford to die and more songs about forgiveness n other things that i believe in like Jesus, and letting him back in class oughta be more songs

I like me a good old cheating song in a honky tonk with cold beer and a buddy and I like to sing just as I am with a congregation and a little church to come Sunday and I love to dance a slow dance to a love song with my baby and the lights down low yeah but we all know there oughta be more songs about them angels volunteering at the mission fixing food to the homeless and giving toys to needy children and more songs about them soldiers whose war is never over who made it home but never quite came back oughta be more songs

oughta be more songs 'bout that oughta be more songs about us common folk puttin' in 8 days a week and burning both ends of the candle just trying to make ends meet and more songs about them singers who picked this road im on, some gone but not forgotten some still going strong there's Waylon, Hank my daddy and the man in black oughta be more songs about that.

more songs more songs about that
