Pain

Montgomery Gentry

I lie awake at night and all I do is toss and turn
The more I live the more I wonder why I never learn
I try and try but I'm no good at getting over you
I stare your empty pillow down until the teardrops fall
I turn my back so I won't think of you and face the wall
But I see your picture hanging there, it breaks my heart in two

Your little memory, just brings me misery
I'm barely getting by, ever since you said goodbye

Anywhere, any time, it's all I ever do
Every day that I die, I always think of you
Every day, every night, it's like this lonely room
It's an everlasting rain
Nothing seems to stop this pain

Anywhere, any time, it's all I ever do
Every day that I die, I always think of you
Every day, every night, it's like this lonely room
Anywhere, any time, it's all I ever do
Every day that I die, I always think of you
Every day, every night, it's like this lonely room
Is an everlasting rain
Nothing seems to stop this pain
