I could pick apart the words you say, But never crack the code. 'Cause every little bit you give, Has me screaming for more.

Do you wanna play a little game?
It's called trust or fall.
But I have taken your mind as a hostage,
So I've already won.

Call it a dangerous obsession.

You can pretend you won't get caught.

I've got a dangerous confession.

This is a game that I've never lost

It's known as competition if you learn the ropes.

Like a kaleidoscope,

When I give you a spin,

I am in.

I could complicate the words you say. I could not break down that wall. Conversations, always no replies, But you wait and you wait 'til I fall.

Will you come a little closer, dear? Do you wanna have a little fun? Here we go, But you've already won.