Departure

Mors Principium Est

You paid the price for my desires To satisfy my burning lust I felt temptation taking over me I lost control of what was real I am aware of other times It's like a dream of another game I thought that this would never end Pull me out from this dark country of the dead

I will never forgive you For all the things you made me do I will never forget you For all the things you put me through

I can never forget you I can sense your body next to mine I will never lose you You will always be here with me I can live, but you can't die Closed like the love that bound me

You can't touch, you can't feel The wounds I closed will never heal You can't hear, you can't speak But still I hear you calling me I can smell, I can taste And twine your arms around me I didn't mean to kill you I only tried to hurt you But once I saw all your bloody tears I laid you down and let you die
