

Can you open your eyes
Can you stare into the fate you know
Let it move right through you
Take a piece of what you call your soul

To the opium skies
You gaze through the blackened sun
And with death by your side
You wade through the ones you love
Before the frozen light
You beg for the end to come
From the opium skies

Can you open your eyes
Can you stare into the fate you know
Let it move right through you
Take a piece of what you call your soul
Now it's never the same
When there's no place you can call your home
How can you ever get up
When the masters' got the bullet on

To the opium skies
You gaze through the blackened sun
And with death by your side
You wade through the ones you love
Before the frozen light
You beg for the end to come
From the opium skies

You won't believe it
You'll never try
Take it our leave it
Your life is like a testament to genocide
Close your opium eyes
Lay down your head and die
