

Porcupine Rain

Mostly Autumn

Point me at the sky, let this love die.
Call my name now, call my soul now;
No more pain, no more tears.
Lift me up, now into golden sun, into golden sun
Bathing in the haze, bathing in the haze.
Into golden skies, into golden skies.

When was it ever a dream,
When was it ever a dream,
When was it ever, it's over.
When was it ever a dream,
When was it ever a dream.
Was it ever, it's over.
This love is over.

(Counterpoint)

I never thought that these dark clouds would pass over me.
Now it's all over.

Point me at the sky, let this love die
No more pain, now, No more tears now
Lift me up, Show me the sky
Into golden sun, into golden sun
Bathing in the haze, bathing in the haze.

Into golden sky, into golden sky.
When was it ever a dream,
When was it ever a dream,
When was it ever, it's over
When was it ever a dream,
When was it ever a dream,
Was it ever, it's over.
This love is over.

(Counterpoint)

I never thought that these dark clouds would pass over me
Now it's all over end
