

Letter

Mother Mother

I wrote my letter, yeah I wrote my letter today
The little letter gonna have to go a long, long way
I miss my lover, yeah I write a letter everyday
The only thing is that my lover don't ever write me

Yeah...

I want a letter to read

All that I have
All that I have loved is lost and forgot
I want a letter, want a letter, want a letter to read all alone, me and your memory before I let go
I want a letter, want a letter, want a letter to read

I wait all day by the mailbox on the street
The postmen don't stop they just walk past me
Maybe it's the way that is meant to be, yeah
Maybe it's the way I'm supposed to grieve

Yeah...

I want a letter to

All that I have
All that I have loved is lost and forgot
I want a letter, want a letter, want a letter to read all alone, me and your memory before I let go
I want a letter, want a letter, want a letter to read

Life is just a syllable and day's the same
So is it just a little overkill writing the days away?

I wrote my lover, yeah I wrote my lover today
The little letter gonna have to go a long, long way
I want a letter, want a letter, want a letter
I want a letter, want a letter, want a letter

All that I have (all that I have)
All that I have loved is lost and forgot (lost and forgot)
I want a letter, want a letter, want a letter to read all alone (all alone)
I want a letter, want a letter, want a letter to before I let go (I let go)
I want a letter, want a letter, want a letter to read□
