

You dove and you float
in the afterglow
the night felt so right let you go

breathing light
breaking light

who wouldve thought that I see you like this you never told me bout the sights that Ive missed now you're everywhere damn all your faults, I can't see them no more you bled right open, I can see to your core and it's beautiful

shut down shut up twisted round breathe in breathe out like watersound

breathing light
breaking light

relief is painted on the eyes that I see you changed you face before looking at me now Im scared to death my vision blurred, now I can't see what's right like counting stars on an Aurora night-it don't matter much...

you're faceless anyhow leaving them to comprehend you tie a rope to the eternal blue