Love Never Dies

I still hear you, I still see you, When I close my eyes, I can still feel you, And I still want you, Love never dies Love Love Love never dies Love Love Love never dies

We must have sat upon an old bench For ten long summers First it was weed, girls and football, then it was greed and birds and alcohol I won't forget the night that We just couldn't make you listen You thought you were always right But you were so, so wrong you were so headstrong, and now you'r e gone

But I still hear you I still feel you When I close my eyes, I still need you And we still want you, You see, love never dies Love love love never dies

Your motorbike is resting Abandoned by the playground Because it was throwing rocks and climbing trees now it's pushi ng rocks and transfer fees Memories are playing Like music in the distance, Why did you leave the party so, so soon You should be here with me when I play that tune I still hear you I still see you when I close my eyes No, love... never dies Love never dies Love love love never dies Love love love never dies
