

Seasons Change

Much The Same

It's happening again
My heart has lost control
And impulse has subdued all reasoning in me
But in a picture perfect world
I wouldn't be stuck in the passenger's seat
While riding with defeat

I can't sit back and watch it fall apart
I won't sit back and watch my life fall apart
I'll wash away the drought, the stale feeling that's inside

This is what you're waiting for (to die)
This is what you're waiting for (to fail)
What are you waiting for?
Got a feeling that my life has got to change

At half a world away
You're closer to me now
Than some collating song that illustrates all of my pain
I need you to defeat
The feeling that's inside of every waking night
Now I need you by my side
So I can finally shut my eyes
And kiss my fears goodnight

This is what you're waiting for
This is what you're waiting for
This is what you're waiting for
What are you waiting for?

This is what you're waiting for (to die)
This is what you're waiting for (to fail)
This is what you're waiting for
Got a feeling that my life has got to change

This is what you're waiting for (to die)
This is what you're waiting for (to fail)
What are you waiting for?
Got a feeling that my life has got to change