You'll never be the man they want you to be you've got no goals in life it don't make sense to see someone forgotten someone you used to know is there a reason no one seems to care no one can give you the life you get what he said was true and I'll never forget his son the sacrifice now I owe him my life give your life to God come into his light don't let the world own you with it's false analogies of what a happy life looks like and why you don't add up there's no happy ending to this impossibility so change your mind and give him time I'm sure you'd agree they gave you heroes someone to look up to you'll never be like them no matter how hard you try it's all superficial a deceptive lie I know you're getting tired so stop!
