

Certainty Kills

My American Heart

And the sound of rain is killing me It's killing me and tonight don't fall asleep to know I won't be here tomorrow
And my fear of waking up is haunting me tonight, tonight I'll die tomorrow
die tomorrow
and certainty will kill me once again
I'll die tomorrow
die tomorrow
and certainty will kill me once again Yeah I was hoping things had a chance and wonders would make it past Then things would be so perfect can it be I've seen so many things?
I've seen you touch the sky and it's more than unbelievable
unbelievable
I'll die tomorrow
die tomorrow
and certainty will kill me once again Well thirty went September and it's too late to run back I was hoping things might of had the chance Yeah thirty went September and it's too late to run back I was hoping things might have had the chance
Had a chance
Had a chance
Yeah seeing you touch the sky
And it's more than unbelievable
unbelievable
I'll die tomorrow
die tomorrow
And certainty will kill me once again

Yeah seeing you touch the sky
And it's more than unbelievable
unbelievable
I'll die tomorrow
die tomorrow
And certainty will kill me once again