

One Among The Living

Mystery

Everything he's touched has always turned to gold
He's been driving the fastest cars around
He lives in a castle

But every night he prays in hope of something better
Something he's been dreaming of
For the whole of his life

And he prays, and he waits
He's only one among the living

She's the Queen of all the beauty raised on Earth
Dressed in satin, lace and jewels
Yet tonight again she cries

And she prays, and she waits
She's only one among the living

Just take a look
At the world around you now
When the sun has falling down
A thousand souls are crying

And they pray, and they wait
They're only some among the living

Some are born to live their lives out on a lie
Others give throughout their lives
Who chooses the ones who die?

Makes you wonder till you find
You're only one among the living

One among the living
