

I Am A Leaf

Nana Mouskouri

I am a leaf, you are the wind
Softly you blow and I fall down
I am the sun cold moon disowns
And I die each night and I wake alone

I am the sand, you are the tide
You lay me down and cast me wide
I am the bed, round which you flow
And as I lay there, you drift and go

I am not free although I am
My love's too strong, I can't break it down
I sing and fly within your smile
And I am again for just a while
