

I Care

Nana Mouskouri

A prayer never answered
A song with no words
A voice that is crying never heard
That's how you're feeling
But you need to know
The truth is that you're not alone

There is someone who loves you
Someone who cares
When the weight of the world seems unfair
I will be there to hold you
To comfort to share
When it feels like there's nobody there
I care

I know you have worries
Not here to say
My love can make them go away
But your hand in my hand
Can lighten the load
Or even the rockiest road

There is someone who loves you
Someone who cares
When the weight of the world seems unfair
I will be there to hold you
To comfort to share
When it feels like there's nobody there
I care

I will be there to hold you
To comfort to share
When it feels like there's nobody there
I care

I will be there to hold you
To comfort to share
When it feels like there's nobody there
I care
