Just A Ribbon

Nana Mouskouri

He gave to me a silver ring
To wear upon my hand
But I turned away
And he heard me saying
Oh, he doesn't, he doesn't understand

I don't need riches to make me care Just a ribbon for my hair

He gave to me two golden hearts
To wear upon my ears
But I turned from him
So he could not see
My eyes, my eyes were filled with tears

I don't need riches to make me care Just a ribbon for my hair

He tought I was unhappy
But he could not fight no more
So he bought me just a ribbon
For a penny at the store

He bought me just a ribbon blue To wear in my hair Then I pressed my lips To his fingerstips Saying Now, now I know you care

I don't need riches to make me care Just a ribbon for my hair I don't need riches to make me care
