Longing

Nana Mouskouri

Longing to hold you in my arms again Longing to know your breathless charm again Longing to have you These hands that reach out and die for your touch

Longing to feel your lips caress my cheeks Longing to feel too full of love to speak Praying for arms to stay in Until the day, after always with you

Now you're gone, there's no reason to be living And go on, but it's wrong to be without you Don't forsake me, come back my love and take me My lonely heart will break without you by my side

Me and the lovely dreams Feel me, with the tenderness of you Longing, I'll go on longing Till I belong in your arms again Once again, once again
