Don't Let Him Waste Your Time

Nancy Sinatra

You can stay all night if you want to You can hang out with all of his friends You can go and meet his mother and father Better make sure that's where it ends

'Cause, baby there's just one thing that you've gotta know

Let him read your palm and guess your sign Let him take you home and treat you fine But, baby Don't let him waste your time Don't let him waste your time

'Cause the years flash by in an instant

And you wonder what he's waiting for Then some skinny bitch walks by in some hot pants And he's running out the door So remember that one thing you've gotta know

Let him read your palm and guess your sign Let him take you home and treat you so fine But, baby Don't let him waste your time Don't let him waste your time

You ain't getting no younger And you've got nothing to show So tell him that it's now or never And then Go, go, go, go, go

He can have his space He can take his time He can kiss you where the sun don't shine

Oh, baby Don't let him waste your time Don't let him waste your time
