Uncertainty Blurs the Vision

Napalm Death

A vision of life Where together we walk Unbound from an existence Of fear and pain

The key to which Is self-contained External freedom Must evolve from liberation within

To gain respect And see the qualities in all life Forms the spark Which strikes the light

When so minimal the loss How great be the risk In reaching out and reclaiming our souls?

But until we overcome The uncertainty in our fellow man The vision of hope Remains an illusion

"You reach out and touch it. You feel it. It is the life and love that is alive in you. The feeling that is beyond thought A feeling of truth. Reality in you, When it is reached, you can reach it in others. This is the liberation. This is the unity." [Rudimentary Peni, 1983]

[why this is on the lyric sheet, I have no idea - seems to be] [the inspiration for "Uncertainty..."]