The Conflict Already Home

Neal Morse

I stand accused I'm beaten used and tired They took all my words and threw them in the fire As they cast me down there's somethin' found within me They can grind me dust but life is just beginning There is a truth that I'm feeling; love full of healing Somewhere I've never known As I surrender completely; pure and it's easy Like I'm already home I'm already home Take me away I want to stay by the water If I pass on won't you tell my sons and daughters When I am gone you all must go on believing Lay down your life 'cause love is what gives it meaning There is a truth that I'm feeling; love full of healing Somewhere I've never known As I surrender completely; pure and it's easy Like I'm already home There is place full of knowing; like it was snowing Waking me up at last And as the pages keep turning; yielding and yearning Washing away the past You can know You can know the truth He has come He has come for you There is a truth that I'm feeling; love full of healing Somewhere I've never known (Already Home)

As I surrender completely; pure and it's easy Like I'm already home (I'm already home) There's a place full of knowing; like it was snowing Waking me up at last (Already Home) And as the pages keep turning; yielding and yearning Washing away the past (I'm already home)

Oh God I seek the glory that's from you and from you only Oh God I seek the glory that's from you I'm already home ...
