Coldwater Morning

Neil Diamond

One, knowing I'm one, hearing of two And like a child believing dreams Always a dream to take you home

Day, after the day, there comes the night There comes the knowing when you laugh If you should laugh, The night alone will hear And the night don't care

Coldwater morning Take off your nighttime shoes Coldwater morning I've been waiting so long for you

One, knowing I'm one, hearing of two Hearing of things that I once had That you once had And when the night would come We'd sleep like one Coldwater morning Take off your nighttime shoes Coldwater morning I've been waiting so long for you I've been waiting so long for you....
