

I Keep Searching

Neil Sedaka

I keep searching, searching for that some one
Now I think I found what I'm looking for
You're so fine, so fine

There you are just standing in the room now
And I'm wondering what I should say or do
Will it go my way?

Should I walk right up to you?
Will I stumble with my words?
Should I attempt to try some small talk?
Should I make a move
Or should I play it cool?
Taking the risk, what have I got to lose

Now the room is filled with so much laughter
And I'm standing here, only feeling you
Can you feel me too?

I've been glancing at your face
Looking for a searching smile
There's a strange attraction here
Wondering if you're lonely

Won't you send a sign?
Hoping and praying
And dreaming that you'll be mine

I keep on circling round the room
And as the music starts to play
Like in a dream, it's just us two
It's like a movie in my mind
But will the ending turn out fine
My heart keeps calling out to you

I keep searching, searching for that some one
Now I think I found what I'm looking for
You're so fine, so fine, so fine

I keep searching, searching for that some one
Now I think I found what I'm looking for
You're so fine, so fine
