

For the Love of Man

Neil Young

For the love of man
Who could understand what goes on
What is right and what is wrong
Why the angels cry, and the heavens sigh when a child is born to live but not like you or I

Let the angels ring the bells
In the holy halls
May they hear the voice that calls to them
For the love of man, who will understand
It's alright
I know it's alright

Down the dusty road to the forest church. Let me wander there
Let me wonder why
On the ocean wave. In the billowing sky
Let me wander there
Let me wonder why

Let the angels ring the bells
In the holy halls
May they hear the voice that calls to them
For the love of man, who will understand
It's alright
But I wonder why
I wonder why
I wonder why
