At Last

Neko Case

I can say that I've lived here in honor and danger But I'm just an animal and cannot explain a life Down this chain of days I wished to stay among my people Relation now means nothing, having chosen so defined

And if death should smell my breathing As it pass beneath my window
Let it lead me trembling, trembling
I own every bell that tolls me