

Stars

Nelly Furtado

There are so many stars in the sky tonight
Which one will I take in my hand?
There are so many ways I can live a life
Which one will I make part of my plan?
There are so many spirits in the air tonight
Trying to pull me away

You're a part of me
You're in every breath that I breathe
And every step forward that I take
And then I take a step backwards
And I can't see your face

You're a part of me
You're in every song that I sing
And every bird that sings to me
This is what I dream
To be real
This is my reality

There are so many songs on the people's faces
Everyone could be yours but they're not
And all is lost if I count the truth
To my own heart

You're a part of me
You're in every breath that I breathe

And every step forward that I take
And then I take a step backwards
And I can't see your face

You're a part of me
You're in every song that I sing
And every bird that sings to me
This is what I dream
To be real
This is my reality

Because my heart is a lonely hunter
Dying to strike out
Grabbed you into my world when you didn't even ask
But you always knew that you had a past

You're a part of me
You're in every breath that I breathe
And every step forward that I take
And then I take a step backwards
And I can't see your face

You're a part of me
You're in every song that I sing
And every word that speaks to me
This is what I believe
To be real
This is my reality
