Breakdown

Neuroticfish

I step into the darkness Preparing for the light I do expect the hardest And deferred off to the side

I still sense the difference Darkened kinds of need I try to feel the distance Between the ground and feet

Sometimes it seems to me This little invitation Is smiling down on me Without retaliation

The purpose comes within The different dependency The colours fade to grey It's better for you to see

I step into a room With mirrors of disguise My teeth begin to flicker My fingers become eyes