

This face I know from the start
These smiling eyes have placed a chill into my heart
And there'll be times when we're apart
I keep you right with me with all my best regard

I never told you that the world is always fair
I always warned you of the times when you despair
I cannot defend you but I'll try and will be there
All that I can give is care

Carefully you've planned your part
The steps you made were never meant to lead so far
Are you prepared to play this card?
And did you consider it will be a little hard?