New Found Glory

I wake up something more than what I'm supposed to be something more than I have meant to show. How was I supposed to know that I've wanted, and I've waited.

And I can be the one to show you that life's not simple enough.

And I can be the one to tell you I've held this back for too long.

And my heart aches...

These feelings I've held inside for you.

And my heart aches...

How can I stop the pain?