

Your Jokes Aren't Funny

New Found Glory

Your clothes and your motions, they caught my eye
It's no disguise what you want from me
Your humor, the bait for a trap so contrived
It's no surprise what you want from me

Got no quarters in my pocket
There's no change to play your game

Your perfume scent, the lies I'll admit
Just more evident what you want from me
The right recipe but the wrong target
You'll never get what you want from me

Got no quarters in my pocket
There's no change to play your game

Your jokes aren't funny anymore to me
I'm not the same fool that I used to be
Your jokes aren't funny anymore to me
I'm not the same fool that I used to be

You don't need scales to tell you're a snake
In for the take, yeah, you're using me
Someone in your life didn't hug you enough
I'm not your drug, no abusing me

Got no quarters in my pocket
There's no change to play your game

Your jokes aren't funny anymore to me
I'm not the same fool that I used to be
Your jokes aren't funny anymore to me
I'm not the same fool that I used to be
Fool that I used to be

Your jokes aren't funny anymore to me
Your jokes aren't funny anymore to me
I'm not the same fool that I used to be

Your jokes aren't funny anymore to me
I'm not the same fool that I used to be
Your jokes aren't funny anymore to me
I'm not the same fool that I used to be
Fool that I used to be
Fool that I used to be
Your jokes aren't funny anymore to me
