

You're The Only Place

Nick Lachey

Seems like our love is on the road to nowhere fast
All my life I thought a love like this would last
But every road can hide a corner we can't see
I had a vision that I woke up by your side
I felt your breathing and our souls were intertwined
But who controls love's destiny
Not me
We had it all right in our hands
We had the room to fly and still the place to land

And so I'm calling out, I'm calling out
You're the only one
Who can save us from what we've done
That don't leave me hanging on
I'm reaching out and praying you'd come back again
It's just darkness I'm living in
And you're the only place my heart has ever been

Maybe I'm longing in a way of love naive
Maybe I'm desperate for a reason to believe
There wasn't any way I thought that we would fall
I've seen perfection in a rainbow in the sky
I've seen a child make the coldest grown man cry
But loving you I thought was greater than them all
And we had it all, just you and me
And now there's a doorway to my heart without a key

Wherever you are right now, come back baby show me how you feel
Because I'm lost without you here
I'm calling out, I'm calling out
You're the only one
Now take a look at what I become
And don't leave me hanging on
I'm reaching out and praying you'd come back again
It's just darkness I'm living in
And you're the only place my heart has ever been
