

The Hammer's Coming Down

Nickelback

Where will you be when the sky comes down?
And what would you do if the strength was found?
Stand right beside me when the ground starts shaking
The only sound you'll hear is the breath we're taking
If there is one thing I can promise you
We'll see the light again

This is the calm before the coming storm
This is the red sky morning
Without warning now
This is the fight that we've been waiting for
And there's no sense in running
The hammer's coming down,
The hammer's coming

Once it's started, there's no turning back
And I'll be with you when the sun turns black
'Cause finding faith will always be the hardest
When you're standing in the heart of darkness
If there is one thing I can promise you
We'll see the light again

This is the calm before the coming storm
This is the red sky morning
Without warning now
This is the fight that we've been waiting for
And there's no sense in running
The hammer's coming down,
The hammer's coming

Holding on
We'll make it till the dawn
It'll be here before long
Holding on
If we can find the light
We can make our way back home

Holding on
We'll make it till the dawn
It'll be here before long
Holding on
If we can find the light
We'll find the light come on
We'll find the light come on
Hold on
If we can find the light
We'll find the light come on
We'll find the light come on