I Was Never A Normal Boy

Nightmare Of You

You, you found yourself a sweetie You won't leave their side tonight And if tomorrow actually happens Then, you just might reconsider On how to go awry

I am not sure where I belong to I was never a normal boy I don't go out unless it's demanded of me I already know what is outside But what I don't know is what's inside of me

And oh, how the bombs look so pretty In the Fourth of July sky But now, it just looks so revolting When knowing, our president was a liar Oh, there he goes again

I am not sure where I belong to I was never a normal boy I don't go out unless it's demanded of me I already know what is outside But what I don't know is what's inside of me

Oh, living is so easy Oh, living is so easy With blindfolds on our eyes With blindfolds on our eyes

I am not sure where I belong to I was never a normal boy I don't go out unless it's demanded of me I already know what is outside But what I don't know is what's inside of me
