The Eye of Ra

In my foolishness I had taken form of a mortal man And entered time to live amongst humanity born of my tears But now they have turned against me and my descendants They overthrow the temples and curse my name

Now I return to the city of the sun There enthroned gouge out my eye Terrible is m pain horrifying are my cries dreadful is my tower ing rage All my fierce passions cause my torn eye To take shape as a fearsome lioness With teeth and claws that ache to rend flesh Heedless of the blood that courses down my cheek Sekhmet the might I name thee and Nesert who is a burning flame

Then the terrible roar of Sekhmet sounds forth Flee from me humanity though it availeth thee not Hide in the deserts and the mountains Let fear grow in your hearts For I am vengeance and bloody death

With terrible wrath

Shall I now go forth out into the two lands To slay the gathered armies of man Not one shall stand alive where I have been As I rend the very flesh from their bones I will wade in human blood and drink my fill For the joy of killing gladdens my heart
