Valentine

Nils Lofgren

Today I'm thinkin' about the world we live in All the love and hate that's floatin' around All the times I felt so lost and helpless You stood by me, you never let me down Still I keep throwin' up these walls

Most of them I've built with stones You tear 'em down and bridge the distance Knowin' we ain't here to be alone So let your blue heart open wide

Let's never leave our dreams behind It would comfort and restore my pride If you let me be your valentine Our differences are part of life

Still love will pass the test of time I want you everyday and night Girl, won't you be my valentine be my valentine oh

Be my valentine Be my valentine
