There's a big white house in the court with a church in the mid dle

This is my lighthouse it used to watch over me from the room
There's no unlocked doors or open windows for me anymore
If I slept at your door holding flowers in your name on the wal

Would it make, would it make a difference?

And I know this broken road won't last for long

I know there's no windows for me anymore

There's a big black hole in the heart with a face in the middle She was my whole world I watched her crumble to dust in my eyes I remember she'd to stand on the steps just to reach for a kiss How we tried to hold on

There's a big white house that my soul still lives in with your name on the wall

Is there something, is there something I'm missing?

And I know this broken road won't last for long

I know there's no windows for me anymore

And I know this wish for change won't last for long

And I know there's no reason for me to hold on

There's a big white house that my soul still lives in, 7 Windso r Court

I'll never go there again

And I know this broken road won't last for long

And I know there's no reason for me to hold on
