

Brand New Me

Nine Days

So I lay down my arms
And I will fight no more
Give my wounds some time to heal
So I cannot feel
Let me be numb so I can smile
And fake it for a while

Just give me faith and give me love
Let it fall from up above
Give me something I don't know
That I do not recognise
A brand new face, a brand new soul
Let me rise up from the old
And become someone you don't know
That you will not recognise

And if I knew your memory
Looking back what would I see?
Were you different on your own?
How could I know?
And is it easier to heal?
Do you break now just to feel?
A little something after all
And now something is gone

Just give me faith and give me love
Let it fall from up above
Give me something i don't know
That I do not recognise
A brand new face, a brand new soul
Let me rise up from the old
And become someone you don't know
That you will not recognise

Follow in your will that'll get there for you
Following behind and I won't ignore you
I hear the voices in my head
But I never listen to them

Just give me faith and give me love
Let it fall from up above
Just give me something I don't know
A brand new face, a brand new soul
Let me rise up from the old
And become someone you don't know

Just give me wind upon my back
Let me say that I won't come back
Take me somewhere I don't know
That I do not recognise
A brand new place to call my own
Let me rise up from the old
And become someone you don't know
That you will not recognise
That you will not recognise
That you will not recognise
