

Waiting On The Corner

Nine Days

Standing here, all alone, on the corner by her door said to wait, you might be late but I was that too and now it's half past eight

Well my friends they all, got it made me, I can't stop from losing my pay gets so bad, I don't know where I am time sure flies and now it's quarter to ten

And I don't even remember, why I'm here Oh but if you should suddenly appear it might come back to me (ohyeah) cause I ain't got it all that bad you listen close and you might understand I might have loved, I might have lost but I can't change a thing now, whatever the costs

Well we missed again, that's alright we'll try once more another night it's days like these, that make it hard you try my patience, you try my heart

I don't even remember, why I'm here Oh but if you should suddenly reappear I'm sure that it will come right back to me (ohyeah)
cause I ain't got it all that bad I thought you'd be the one to understand we might have loved, we might have lost but I can't change a thing now, whatever the costs

standing here, all alone,
you said to wait, you might be late but that was on tuesday, now you're three days late cause I ain't got it all that bad, even know you might not understand I might have loved, I might have lost but I wouldn't change a thing now, whatever the costs
