

France has carried out the first of a planned series of underground nuclear tests

At moruroa isle in the south pacific

The french defence ministry said the magnitude of the explosion was approximately the same as the bomb dropped on hiroshima