Puppet Show

No Use for a Name

Looking, laughing, talking all your shit Wondering if you live your life just so you can fit Could it be real Or you're a fake Nobody's that way ... Give me a fucking break No recognition is what we should give To people like this that tell me how to live The ones who criticize, they gossip and they smile, The people that live the way that they decide This is not a puppet show No one in the world is hanging on a string Take a look around, there are people everywhere They might be doing circles but it's their own thing.