

One More Night

Noah and the Whale

Are you lying in your bed alone tonight?
While he watches TV
Can you hear it coming through the floorboards?
Why you're thinking of me?
Everybody told you baby, you got married too young.
But you didn't want to listen, did you?
Thought you were right, and they were wrong.

Jennifer, I know we were young.
And God only knows what we could have become,
But I hate to think about you lonely.
I'm stretched out saying, "Someone hold me tonight."

I only left 6 months ago, now,
And you're wearing his ring.
It's like it all, never happened, like it didn't mean a thing.
Do you remember the kiss by the river?
That ended up at your door.
And then, a swift invitation to come up to the second floor

Jennifer, you know where I am.
If you can't see me, I will understand.
That you, you won't need someone to talk to,
You just want my arms around you.

One more night, of us together.
One more night, just you and me.
One more night, to hold you closely.
One more night, to hear you scream.

Jennifer, I know we were young.
And God only knows, what we could have become.
But I hate to think about you lonely.
I'm stretched out, saying "Someone hold me."

One more night, of us together.
One more night, just you and me.
One more night, to hold you closely.
One more night, to hear you scream. [x2]