

Cry

Norther

Your words echoing deep in my mind Fearing the hurt of things to come you dwell in the days left behind

To live or die
Wandering the strange ways of time Life can go by in a blink of an eye and minutes can hold you for thousands of years or never let go

The light is gone now
once so bright
No use to fight
you will fall down
to your knees
Cry

Your search has brought you nothing but pain Looking for light with blindfolded eyes you only got burned by the flame Can't take another day

The light is gone now
once so bright
No use to fight
you will fall down
to your knees
Cry

The light is gone now
once so bright
Crushed in the cold hands with no meaning beautiful things
can be easily broken
Cry
