

You should take me as I am,
if you want me to stay.
Even when it hurts sometimes,
you'll get to know me, it's the way.

Don't try to make someone of me
I don't wanna become.
Never mind I could take you in my arms and say
"You are the one."

I don't want to be afraid
that I never see your real face,
that I won't care about this someday.
I don't want to feel
that you try to make me stay,
when you can have me anyway...

The way you tell me, you love me -
as if it was an invention.
I can read between those lines,
come through your intension.

All you do is amusing me,
the way you try to change me.
You can't rearrange me
the way I used to be - in your fantasy.

I don't want to be afraid
that I never see your real face,
that I won't care about this someday.
I don't want to feel
that you try to make me stay,
when you can have me anyway...

I don't want to be afraid
that I never see your real face,
that I won't care about this someday.
I don't want to feel
that you try to make me stay,
when you can have me anyway...