

Graveyard Shift

Nosferatu

Well don't look back,
Because he'll take away his promises,
Like he took away the light.
And tomorrow, You'll be hanging from the ceiling,
Chained and bleeding to his book of love.

Don't go inside, of the graveyard shift, tonight.

Can't you see,
All the shadows hanging over,
As your world turns from stone to dust.
Still you'll try,
To keep your sanctuary secret,
But tonight will never see the dawn

Don't go inside, of the graveyard shift, tonight.

Hanging on the edge of eternity,
As I give to you me, give unto me.
And running through the dark, I see your shining light,
Another dream for you.

He'll steal your soul,
And give you to the chosen ones,
The price you pay for another way.
But tonight, you'll be running to the desolation,
And tomorrow's just a kiss away

Don't go inside, of the graveyard shift, tonight.
