Into The Night

Nosferatu

The mist surrounds me as I hide and wait alone,
With the ghost of your forgiveness, The skin and bone.
Giving into my disease, it's taking far too long,
As the isolation slips away, Something is killing you.

Into the darkness, into the night,
Into the shadows, Between death, between life.
Into the darkness, into the night, I dare you to decide.

Tomorrow comes too soon, While I'm burning down the past,
Break the circle, break the glass, And the fear takes hold.
Ashes to ashes, forever and again,
Till you decide if what you want, Is what you really need.

Into the darkness, into the night,
Into the shadows, Between death, between life.
Into the darkness, into the night, I dare you to decide.
