

The Hunger

Nosferatu

Follow me into the night,
I'll take you there, lay down your life.
Forget about the other days,
The darker times the shades of grey.
Through the glass embrace I'll come to you,
Take your sleep and bring you through,
To another side of life, you see,
You are mine eternally

Higher than the stars the sky,
The hunger burns for you.
Sleep my child, you'll never die,
The hunger burns for you.

Follow me to the open doors,
Kiss and bleed, the sounds come cutting,
Just ask and you can have it all,
"With Dog and Dame" And the next to fall.
In the shadow's hold I will arrive,
Take your veil and give you life,
A kiss of death,
your wedding dress,
Your love, my love, I now possess.

You see,
The way it's meant to be sometimes.
God knows. It's hard, but I have faith so put your faith in mine.
And the sun will shine for you.
And I will make you mine.

Higher than the stars the sky,
The hunger burns for you.
Sleep my child, you'll never die,
The hunger burns for you.

You see, The way it's got to be sometimes.
God knows. It's hard, but I have so put your faith in mine.
And the sun won't shine for you.
Somehow, you won't mind.

Higher than the stars the sky,
The hunger burns for you.
Sleep my child, you'll never die,
The hunger burns for you.
